Principles of the Law

The Law states that a Controller must ensure that the processing of all personal data complies with the data protection principles of:

Lawfulness, Fairness and Transparency;

- Purpose Limitation – collected only for specific, explicit and legitimate purposes and only used for that specific, explicit and legitimate purpose;
- Minimisation – data collected shall be limited to the purpose for which they are processed;
- Accuracy - reasonable steps must be taken to ensure that personal data that is inaccurate are erased or corrected without delay;
- Storage Limitation – kept in a form which permits identification of data subjects for no longer than is necessary for the purposes for which the personal data are being stored; may be stored for longer periods insofar as the personal data will be processed solely for archiving purposes in the public interest, historic research or statistical purposes subject to the implementation of appropriate technical or organisational measures to safeguard the rights and freedoms of the data subject;

- Integrity and Confidentiality - processed in a manner that ensures its security, including protection against theft and unlawful processing, accidental loss, destruction or damage;
- Accountability - the controller is responsible for, and must be able to demonstrate compliance with the above principles of the data protection law.

Data Subject Rights

The purpose of the new legislation is to strengthen a data subject's rights over what and how their data is used, stored and accessed and states the following rights:

- Right of access to the personal data;
- Right to rectify inaccurate personal data;
- Right to erasure of personal data when it is no longer required;
- Right to restrict processing when the accuracy of personal data is contested or no longer needed for its original purpose;
- Right to data portability and transfer of personal data;
- Right to object to processing for direct marketing purposes.

Duties of Data Controller and Processors

Personal data must not be processed unless the data controller is registered with the Guernsey Data Protection Commissioner. Personal data is any information that relates to a living person who can be identified by that data. It may be held in different formats – on paper or electronically – and is recorded as part of a relevant filing system or forms part of an accessible record.

Registration with the Data Protection Commissioner must be completed online at <https://dataci.gg> through the On-line Notification portal and an annual fee (currently £50) is payable.

Data Protection Registration

The on-line system enables businesses to notify the Commissioner, as required by the Data Protection Law, by completing pre-set templates on-line, relevant to types of business and there is a specific template for Not for Profit. Should you have any registration or notification enquiries, please telephone the office of the Data Protection Commissioner on +44 (0) 1481 742074 or email enquiries@dataci.org

Registration requires the following information:

1. The name and address of the data controller – GGC's registered address
2. The name and address of any nominated representatives
3. A description of the data and the categories of data subject to which they relate

4. Why the information is being processed

5. A description of any recipient or recipients to whom the data controller intends or may wish to disclose data

6. The countries or territories outside the Bailiwick of Guernsey to which the data controller directly or indirectly transfers, or intends to transfer data

7. A general description of the measures to be taken to prevent unauthorised or unlawful processing of (that is theft of), accidental loss or destruction of, or damage to, personal data

The data controller, GGC, is required to notify the Data Protection Commissioner of any changes to the registration details.

GGC as data controller and its processors are expected to put comprehensive, but proportionate, governance measures in place. Good practice tools such as privacy impact assessments and privacy by design are now legally required. The practical implementation of these requirements is set out below in the 'Operational Steps for Compliance with the Law' section of this Policy.

Ultimately, the measures and operational procedures set out in this Policy should minimise the risk of breaches and uphold the protection of personal data.

The accountability principle as detailed above requires that GGC demonstrates responsibility to and compliance with the data protection principles.

In order to demonstrate compliance the GGC must:

- Implement appropriate technical and organisational measures that ensure and demonstrate compliance This includes internal data protection policies dealing with such matters as training, operational procedures, review and detail of processing activities and data audits of personal data held
- Maintain relevant documentation on processing activities

Please note that the appointment of a data protection officer is not required by GGC as a data protection officer is only required for a public authority, or for organisations which carry out large scale systematic monitoring of individuals or carries out large scale processing of special categories of data or data relating to criminal convictions or offences.

Consent

The Law sets a high standard for consent and it is important that the GGC implements the new requirements regarding gaining freely given, informed, specific and unambiguous consent from all individuals who are the subject of personal data collected and used by GGC.

GGC must make its Privacy Statement, including its Cookie policy (where relevant) available and a consent function at all data collection points. In the case of contracts and legal agreements the consent will be by signed consent, in the case of the website and electronic consent, it will be a mandatory opt-in 'Accept' button, which accepts and consents to how their data will be held in line with the Privacy Statement.

Consent must be clear and affirmative.

Data subjects must have the ability to exercise their right to withdraw consent at any time.

Consent is required when the data is being processed for a new or different purpose.

Consent is required from legal guardians to process data of minors.
